Challenge

In 2005, LogicEase IT executives initiated a project to enhance the company's disaster recovery technology to further protect their online application environments. The solution needed to operate flawlessly across two geographically distinct database sites. Whatever solution was finally selected, it had to prove itself and instill the highest level of confidence in company executives that LogicEase's data would be protected.

Why Dbvisit?

LogicEase executives chose Dbvisit Standby because it met the company's requirements in terms of functionality and price. They took advantage of the trial version, used it for a few months until they were satisfied it met their needs, and then became a customer. Because the trial was such a success, the company did not move forward with other solutions.

Benefits

According to Oracle DBA Priya Natarajan, Dbvisit Standby has been an excellent disaster recovery solution at LogicEase. “As a long-time customer, our confidence in the solution has never wavered. Dbvisit is something we really do not have to worry about.”

Dbvisit put to the test

Natarajan notes that, fortunately, LogicEase has never had a live database failure. However, the company performs disaster recovery drills on at least an annual basis to ensure that its process works as expected. “We simulate failure to see if it works,” says Natarajan. “We shut down the primary database, activate the standby and then test the new primary. It always works flawlessly. We know it will protect us if we do experience a failure of any kind in the future.” She adds that the customer support she has received from Dbvisit Solutions, the makers of Dbvisit Standby, has always been top-notch. “Dbvisit’s support is excellent – they are very quick to respond and their documentation is very good as well.” Natarajan concludes by saying, “We are very pleased with our choice. Dbvisit is a smart alternative and we would not hesitate to recommend it to others.”
